

BECE INTEGRATED SCIENCE 2010

© 2024 Ghana5.com. All rights reserved.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT: The West African Examinations Council – for the BECE past questions used in this document.

PAPER 1 SELECTION

Water that forms lather readily with soap is said to be: soft.

Feeding and respiration are common to both plants and animals.

A suitable instrument that could be used to measure the internal diameter of a bamboo flute is vernier calipers.

The ability of soils to supply the right amounts of essential nutrients to plants is known as soil fertility.

The simplest way of making well water suitable for laundry purposes is by boiling.

Washing down of soil nutrients beyond the reach of roots of plants is referred to as leaching.

Why would an object float in water?
Answer: If it is less dense than water.

An example of leafy vegetable crops is lettuce.

The structure in the respiratory system of humans where gaseous exchange occurs is alveolus.

The gas produced when glucose is oxidized during internal respiration is carbon four oxide.

The farm animal which has crop as part of its digestive system is the fowl.

A beneficial effect of wind on the environment is pollination in flowering plants.

The chemical solution that can be used to test for the presence of protein in food substances Million's reagent.

Some of the effects of bush fires are air pollution, depletion of vegetation cover and global warming.

The most effective method of controlling soil erosion on steep slopes is terracing.

Meteorological Services Department is responsible for providing information on the weather and climatic conditions of an area.

END OF FREE VERSION

Get the full version from our online store:

Ghana5.com/shop

God, having raised up His servant
Jesus, sent Him to bless you...

Acts 3: 26